

Abstract of the Disclosure:

In a smart card module for biometric sensors for installation in smart cards, a support has at least one through opening or
5 window in the region of a sensor chip. The sensor chip is mounted on the support such that an active surface of the sensor chip is directed toward the support and is situated in the region of the window, so that it can be accessed through the window in the support.

00/22/01 18:10:2700

REL/kc